

Patrick has been playing guitar for nearly 40 years, and teaching students of all age for the past 24 years. Patrick studied jazz guitar at UWSP, however a majority of his education has come from playing onstage, and in the studio with a very wide-ranging list of artists and genres. These experiences have culminated in Patrick having a very deep understanding of all things pertaining to guitar. Patrick also teaches bass, ukulele, and banjo. Whether you are beginner, or a more advanced player trying to understand the nuances of improvisation, Patrick would be happy to help you achieve your goals on the instrument.
